We are looking for:

Manager – Strategic IT

with a university degree in the fields of business administration, computer science, commercial information technology or industrial engineering with an excellent record, a doctorate or an MBA are desirable. Very good English language skills are, of course, required. Our vacancies are particularly in our offices in the Middle East, Benelux, United Kingdom, Germany and Switzerland.

We expect the applications of personalities with several years of consulting experience with one of the leading international consulting companies or alternatively relevant industry experience with some years in a leading position (line or project management) with distinctive professional competence and managerial responsibility. Ideally you are familiar with acquisition (proposal preparation and presentation) and leading of consulting projects in conglomerates in the IT strategy sector. Furthermore, you are an "insider" of the IT sector with profound knowledge of relevant business trends, modern IT solutions and competition strategies of the leading IT-service providers.

Desirable is a proven record of experience in some of the following consulting fields:

- Development of IT growth strategies for IT companies
- Concepts and implementation of IT post-merger integration strategies
- Development of IT strategies, innovation strategies, IT-(Out-)sourcing strategies
- Concepts for innovative IT architectures and migration strategies
- Assessment & benchmarking of processes and IT solutions in the fields of Supply Chain, Procurement, Sales & Marketing, Finance & Controlling
- Development of IT control and governance models
- Restructuring/transformation of IT organizations
- M&A activities in IT companies (services, hardware, software)
- Business Process Outsourcing (BPO)

Renowned market research companies count A.T. Kearney as the leading management consultancy with regard to strategic IT consulting. Our clients are many EuroStoxx companies, leading medium-sized companies, and innovative company founders. Sustainability is very important for us. Therefore, A.T. Kearney recently became the first management consulting company worldwide that has a carbon-neutral footprint.

A.T. Kearney offers you the chance to gain valuable experiences based on challenging tasks as a consultant in the Strategic Information Technology Practice Europe in consulting leading European and global companies.

You accompany all phases of a consulting project, from proposal preparation, strategy and concept development to implementation. You manage an international team of motivated colleagues and successfully lead strategic IT projects self-contained and in your own responsibility.
